LEADING ERP FOR TOP-QUALITY PROJECT SERVICE

RCP chooses Greentree for best-in-class management.

What do NZI, Telecom, PwC, Vodafone, ANZ and BNZ have in common?

They've all had major fit-out, building or infrastructure projects managed by RCP.

Since 1996, RCP (the initials stand for Resource Coordination Partnership) has been offering its specialist service: getting big and complicated construction projects over the line. Its successes include developments such as the Eden Park Rugby World Cup stadium, the Christchurch Civic Centre, the Vero Centre, Sky Tower Hotel and Casino, Viaduct Harbour, and the Nga Tamariki Geothermal Power Station in Taupo.

RCP offers "a project management process that manages development, design and delivery risk to achieve optimum time, cost and quality outcomes for our clients". Its Project Managers' skill sets range from architecture and engineering to quantity surveying, valuation, planning, building and business management.

"It's our people that make RCP what it is," adds Accountant Kelly Walsh.

To maintain and grow its top-quality service offering, RCP needed an accounting system to match. Its choice was Greentree.

One-stop shop required

Employing around 100 highly skilled staff in its Project Management Consultancy practice, RCP's biggest cost is salaries. Its legacy timesheet system was slow and difficult to use, with different people on different pay scales having to report their hours spent on any one of several hundred projects on the go.

"There was too much manual work, importing timesheet data into a separate accounting system," Kelly says. 'With Greentree, it's a one-stop shop. Having all our information stored in one system is a real plus for us."

Keeping tabs on jobs

Greentree also fills a big gap in RCP's internal management process: live job analysis, which wasn't possible with its legacy financial system.

"Measuring job costs is crucial for us and with Greentree, our project managers can get that information themselves," Kelly says. "To access this information quickly and easily has significant advantages for our business."

Greentree enables online approval of timesheets and invoices, and removes the need for manual
